

Blue On Blue

by Brit

Blue on blue

I place my patrolman's cap next to my father's on the coat tree his covered with the memories of years cut short, of what could have been

White on blue

I place my trust in this man, relying on him in the midst of insanity a white knight set out to change the world one life at a time

Gold on blue

I place my hand upon my partner's shoulder, and his rests on mine together there is nothing we can't do, our shields a pledge protect and serve, together

Burgundy on blue

I place my yesterdays and tomorrows alongside his, knowing we have and shall make a difference in the uncaring streets even if the difference is only in us

Gray on blue

I place my understanding of what was once so clearly defined in who he is, right and wrong belongs to those who can afford to believe in absolutes justice goes to the highest bidder

Black on blue

I place my badge in the care of the wind-tossed waves, wash away the blood-guilt set us free from the torment of what once was right the payment of blood-debt too high

Red on blue

I place my life in his hands, knowing that he will hold me safe, trusting the bond to bring me back from my father's destiny to live to fight another day

Blue on blue

I place my future in his dreams of what we can be, knowing that whatever tomorrow holds, I won't walk alone, me and thee, partners still, partners always
