

One Day More

by Brit

One day more and maybe I'll find him
If I just keep looking, keep listening to my heart I know he's counting on me to do all I can and I know he'll forgive me if I fail but then, I could never forgive myself

One day more and maybe he'll hurt a little less
If I just keep on holding him, comforting him while he cries I know he's counting on me to see him through this and I know he'll forgive me if I cry too but then, that's the way it always is with us

One day more and maybe he'll forgive me
If I just keep on trying, keep trying to explain I know he's counting on me to make sense of this and I know he'll forgive me if I ask him to but then, could I ever forgive myself?

One day more and maybe he'll come back to me
If I just keep on praying, keeping bargaining with God
I know he's counting on me to keep the faith for him and I know he'll forgive me if I can't but then, would I ever find that faith again?

One day more and maybe we'll start over
If I can just convince him that it's time for us to leave this life behind
I know he's counting on me to stand beside him and I know he'll forgive me if I want us to chose a new path but then, what are best friends for?

9/10/00