

The Bond

by Brit

What distance can the bond travel when separated by miles What hardship can the bond endure by life's desperate, burning trials

What obstacle can the bond overcome when met by hearts of stone What faith can the bond hold onto through the silent days alone

The bond, it knows no journey, fears no hardship, always believes Because the bond is but a breath away between the hearts of me and thee