

The Unyielding Bond
by Brit

Blackened tides yield their dance before moonlight's glow and another day slowly wakes But the unending bond grows solid and strong standing fast as the world thieves its take Season turn, bringing change like the faltering rains and a cold that encompasses earth But the unyielding bond holds fast and firm unioned hearts once again prove their worth

Death denies happiness and is cruel and unjust raping life, leaving no dignity But the bond unyielding, undying, untorn remains yet throughout eternity

10/30/00